*A*s all students of Morgantown will long remember, student life on the University campus is true life—unaffected, sincere and tinged with an attitude of enthusiasm and eagerness for the problems of the present and the future. Even the most cherished memories grow dim with the passing years, and the task of fully recording the ever changing panorama of college life is an ambitious one. The Monticola, as the official chronicle of the year's activities, has undertaken this task and trusts that each student will be able to associate the pictured activities with personal experience and so form a complete record of their Morgantown sojourn. And when memories have faded and time is dim, if this book recalls the glorious days spent at West Virginia University, the joy of service will be ours.

*I*t would not be becoming to affable Charles Lawall to offer loud and flowery praises of him, even though he may deserve it. This mild-mannered, soft-spoken gentleman has proved his worth to the State and West Virginians have taken him in and aim to keep him. President Lawall refused a formal inauguration after his elevation to the presidency because he felt he knew the people of West Virginia and that they knew him. This is typical of this easy-going, versatile, judicious, and scrupulously fair person. And it is to President Charles Elmer Lawall we dedicate the 1940 Monticola.

The progressive, able leadership of West Virginia University's administration during the past 73 years has brought the institution a long way since its creation in 1867 by an act of the West Virginia Legislature.

The West Virginia young men and women who are studying today in the colleges, schools, and divisions of the University will go forward to make a state institution which will be surpassed by none. These students are being guided by the following deans and directors—Friend E. Clark, chairman of the Graduate Council; Frank Cuthbert, director of the School of Music; A. J. Dadisman, director of the Summer Session; R. P. Davis, dean of the College of Engineering.

Carl M. Frasure, assistant dean of the College of Arts and Sciences; T. P. Hardman, dean of the College of Law; J. L. Hayman, dean of the College of Pharmacy; Earl Hudelson, dean of the College of Education; D. L. McElroy, director of the School of Mines; C. R. Orton, dean of the College of Agriculture, Forestry, and Home Economics; Wilson P. Shortridge, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences; A. W. Thompson, dean of the School of Physical Education and Athletics; E. J. Van Liere, dean of the School of Medicine; P. I. Reed, director of the School of Journalism, and William R. Orton, head of the Division of Military Science and Tactics.

*W*e shall begin our story back in 1862, when, on July 2, the National Land-Grant Act was passed. West Virginia University originated from that act when on January 9, 1866, the board of trustees of the Monongalia Academy at Morgantown tendered to the legislature all its property, including Woodburn Female Seminary, on condition that the college should be located at Morgantown. The legislature accepted the property and on February 7 passed an act permanently establishing "The Agricultural College of West Virginia" and authorizing the Governor to appoint eleven suitable persons as a Board of Visitors. Classes for the College of Agriculture were held until 1918 in Martin Hall and in what is now Oglebay Annex. The Experiment Station building was acquired in 1873 and was the Armory. On the second floor, where the agronomy laboratory is now, was the drill room and the Commandant, his family, and other officers lived in the front of the building. In this building now are the laboratories of agricultural chemistry, physiology, nutrition, and agronomy.

The West Virginia chapter of Alpha Zeta was chartered in 1922 and since that time has been the only honorary fraternity in agriculture on the campus. Consideration is given equally to scholarship, leadership, and character, in considering any candidate for membership.

The purpose of this agricultural honorary is the development of the farm, and the farm home, through an organization controlled by agricultural students. It is advised by an agricultural faculty and stimulated by the bonds of fraternity around a membership chosen after an earnest agricultural motive.

A L P H A Z E T A

ORGANIZATIONS

*A*ny one of the hundreds of agricultural students may become a member of the Agricultural Club upon the payment of annual dues. This club, potentially, is one of the largest organizations on the campus. Although organized primarily to promote social activities and entertainment for the members, the club also undertakes activities which are of educational value.

The first Mountaineer Egg and Baby Chick show, which is now an annual event, was sponsored by the club. Each year plant and seed diseases are identified at a judging contest; and apples, potatoes, hogs, horses, dairy cattle, beef cattle, sheep, and poultry are placed.

AGRICULTURAL CLUB

ORGANIZATIONS

The Agricultural Club sponsors departmental organizations such as the Mountaineer Poultry Club and the Mountaineer Collegiate Chapter of Future Farmers of America. The zenith of the club's activities is the "Ag Costume Dance," which is looked forward to by all university students. Participation in the "All Ag Picnic," attended by the students in Home Economics, Forestry, and Agriculture, usually concludes the program for the year.

*P*hi Upsilon Omicron, national professional home economics sorority, was founded at the College of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, in 1909. The local chapter, Lambda, was established in 1923.

Phi U has for its purposes the strengthening of the bonds of friendship; the promoting of the moral and intellectual development of its members; the advancing and promoting of home economics. Barbara Smoyer was president this year; Mary Margaret Devore, vice-president; and Dorothy Haines, secretary.

PHI UPSILON OMICRON

*I*n order to stimulate interest in the various divisions of the College of Agriculture for women, the Home Economics Club was organized to develop leadership and cooperation in the groups. Speakers give the members direct application of their major subject, with the advantages and disadvantages of each.

The serving and entertaining of guests during "Farm and Home Week" is the largest project of the club. One of the objects of the organization is to send a delegate to the national convention each year with this delegate reporting the convention proceedings to the club the next fall.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Visitors held their first meeting on April 3, 1867, at which time they appointed Dr. Alexander Martin president and established collegiate, scientific, and agricultural departments of instruction. The College of Arts and Sciences was the first college to be organized in the newly established University.

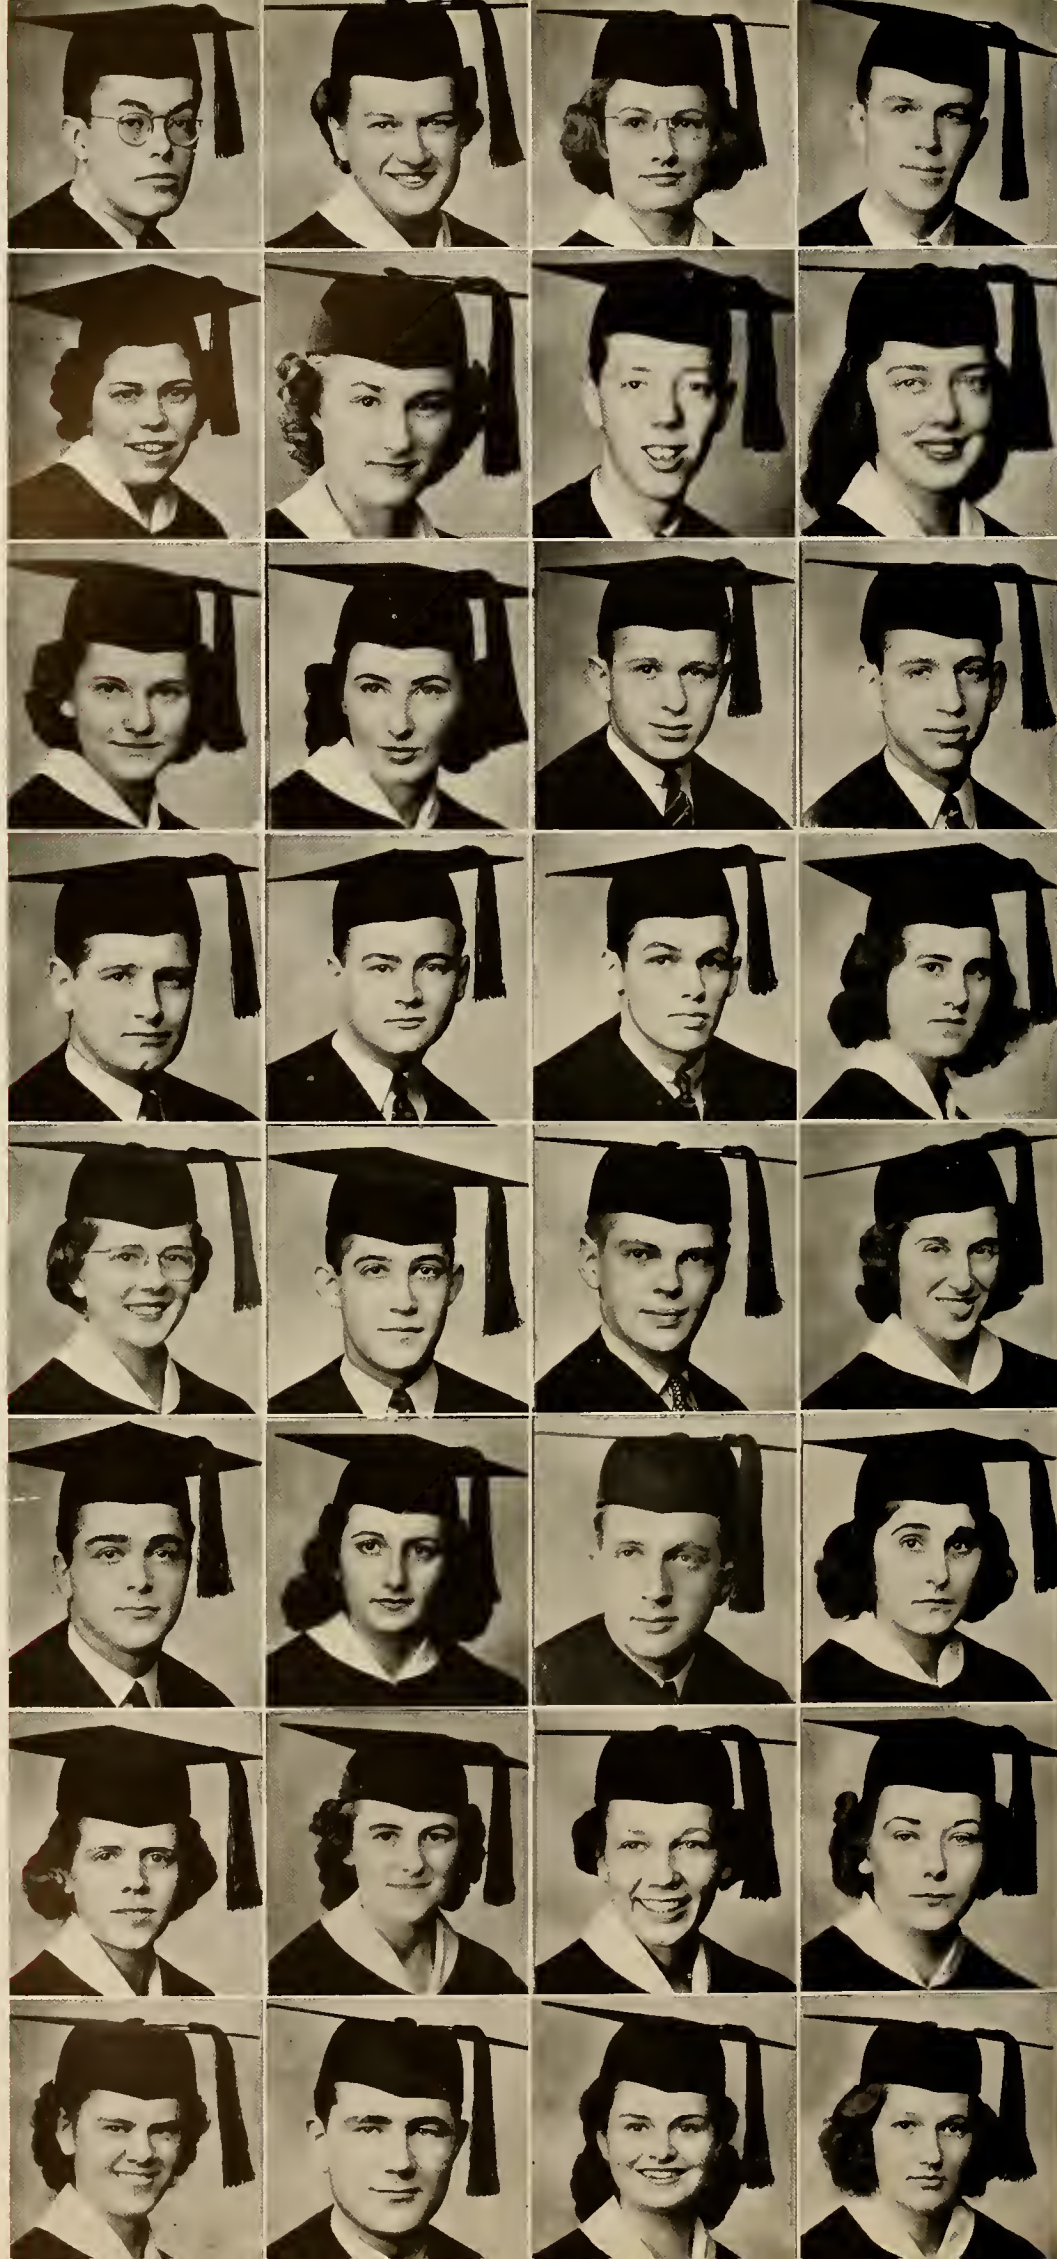

The instruction in this college is administered through the following departments: botany and zoology; chemistry; classics; economics and business administration; English language and literature; art; geology, mineralogy and geography; Germanic languages and literatures; history; home economics; journalism; library science; mathematics; philosophy and psychology; physics; political science; public speaking; Romance languages and literatures; social administration; and sociology and public welfare.

National honorary chemistry fraternity, Phi Lambda Upsilon was established at West Virginia University in 1924. The annual award of the Whitehill Memorial Medal to the student in first year chemistry making the highest average in a special examination is one of the more important activities of the society. Noteworthy speakers are also brought to the campus each year by Phi Lambda Upsilon.

Officers for 1939-'40 are George Woodworth, president; William Hutchinson, vice-president; Otis Nichols, secretary and treasurer.

The Alpha chapter of Phi Epsilon Phi, national honorary botanical fraternity, was founded at West Virginia University in 1929.

The purpose of Phi Epsilon Phi is to encourage in its members professional spirit by fostering high scholastic attainment during the period of preparation for their profession and by inciting interest in botanical research.

This year the chief aim of the organization was to interest the public in the wild flowers of West Virginia. To do this the group sponsored a wild-flower exhibit. The speaker for the occasion was Dr. Paul R. Stewart, president of Waynesburg College.

Dr. Earl L. Core is the adviser for the organization.

Chi Sigma Delta was founded at the University nine years ago. The organization has as its purpose to promote general interest and scholastic enthusiasm in the study of economics.

This organization was organized to be a strictly honorary fraternity for students who have maintained scholastic leadership in economics. To further this leadership, Chi Sigma Delta gives a scholastic award each year to the most outstanding junior in the economics department.

William Mucklow is president of the group and Frances Williams is secretary.

The Committee on Student Publications is composed of five faculty members, appointed by the president of the university, and two students, appointed by the president of the Student Body. This committee supervises all of the student publications, including the Monticola, Daily Athenaeum, Student Directory, Moonshine, Freshman Handbook, and the Cruiser.

All applicants for positions on the staffs of these various publications must be approved by this committee. Each staff in turn is responsible to it and must make suitable reports.

PUBLICATIONS BOARD

By an act of December 4, 1868, the name of the college was changed to "West Virginia University" and the "Board of Visitors" to the "Board of Regents." Following the establishment of the university, expansion was rapid, and the College of Education was the fifth college to be added. In 1901 a Department of Education had been established in the College of Arts and Sciences. Subsequently, departments of education grew up in the College of Agriculture, the College of Engineering, and the School of Music. In 1927 the College of Education was established by the board of the university to unify professional training for school service.

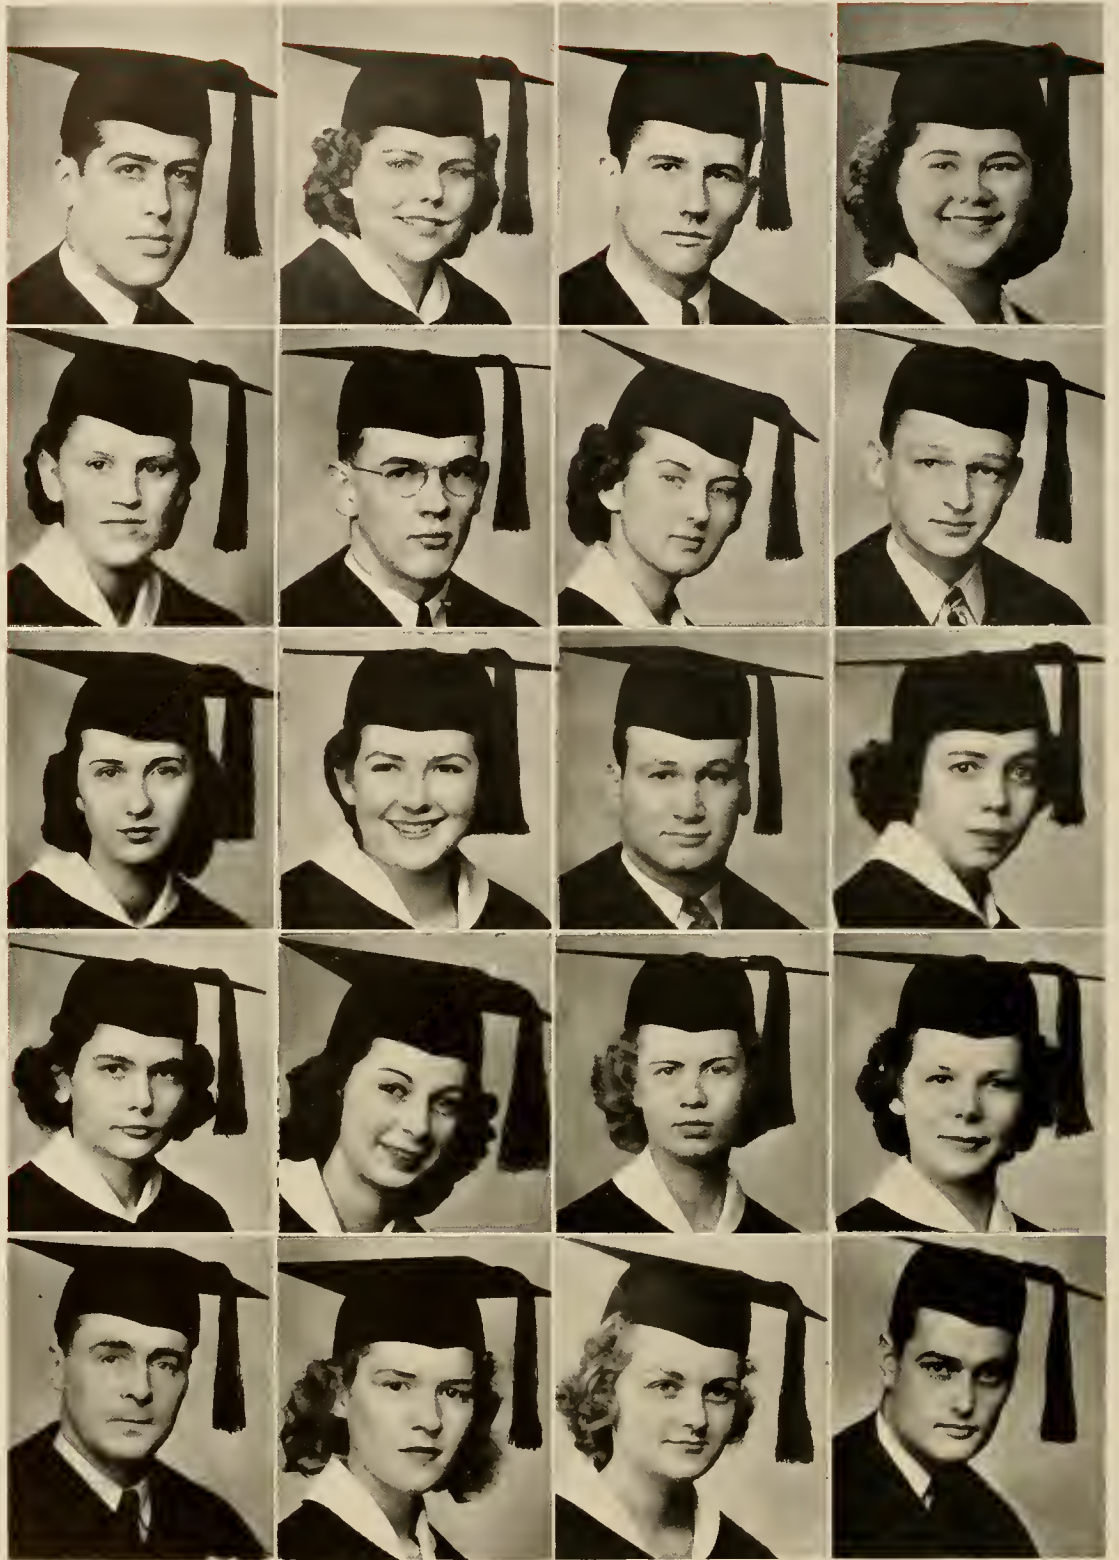

The College of Education comprises the college with its resident courses of instruction and research facilities and the University Demonstration High School with its facilities for observation, student teaching, and experimentation.

The "Board of Regents" controlled the University until July 1, 1919, when it was merged in the "State Board of Education." In 1887, however, the College of Engineering and Mechanic Arts was admitted by the Board of Regents and was the third college to be established. In 1926 the School of Mines was entered by the Board of Education.

The College of Engineering and Mechanic Arts and the School of Mines are located in Mechanical Hall. The College is classified under the following curricula: chemical engineering, civil engineering, electrical engineering, and mechanical engineering. The School of Mines is divided into two departments: the department of mining engineering, and the department of mining and industrial extension.

Upsilon chapter of Sigma Gamma Epsilon, national honorary engineering society, was installed on the local campus in 1927. The objects of Sigma Gamma Epsilon are the social, scholastic, and scientific advancement of its members, and the development of a national college society devoted to geology, mining, metallurgy, ceramics, and petroleum engineering.

Officers for 1939-'40 are: Otis Nichols, president; Jack Allman, vice-president; Sam McDowell, secretary and treasurer.

Kappa Mu Alpha engineering society was founded not as a scholastic honorary, but as an organization in which engineering students could develop their interest in the profession. The local society was founded October 25, 1938; its name was derived from one of Newton's three laws of motion, F equals kMA .

Officers for the current year are: George G. Megrail, president; Si Birch, vice-president; Ben Johnson, secretary; Joseph Cestaric, treasurer.

The chief object of the undergraduate branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers is to enable students to present technical papers before an audience. Each member is required to give four papers during the school year.

After receiving the bachelor of science degree, students may become eligible for membership in the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. Officers are: Don T. Worrell, president; Frank W. Deegans, vice-president; James R. Shoaf, secretary; James F. Mynes, treasurer.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS

The first instruction in journalism at West Virginia University consisted of a two-hour course in news writing offered in 1915 in the Department of English of the College of Arts and Sciences. A sequence of professional courses was inaugurated by the same department in 1920. As the demand increased, a complete professional curriculum was made available. In 1927 an additional full-time instructor was engaged, larger quarters were obtained, and a separate Department of Journalism was created.

In consequence of the substantial development over nearly two decades and in view of the rapid advancement of professional schools of journalism throughout the nation, the University Board of Governors on April 22, 1939, separated the journalism unit from the College of Arts and Sciences and organized it as a School of Journalism with an administrative status similar to that of other schools and colleges of the University.

*B*anding together for the purpose of cementing friendships and furthering cooperation among the women of the School of Journalism, Matrix, a professional organization, is active in newspaper work by publishing each year an issue of the Daily Athenaeum, and is active in social affairs by giving a tea to honor visiting newspaper women and editors' wives each fall at the annual Newspaper Conference.

Matrix meetings are informal and emphasize good fellowship over professional spirit, but members are not unaware of the serious aspects involved in planning for a newspaper career.

*J*ournaliers celebrate their fifteenth year of existence this year, having been organized by several men enrolled in journalism courses at the university in 1925 and who gathered one evening to discuss a topic of mutual interest. They returned to their rooms that night as members of a new campus organization—the Journaliers.

Headed by George Armstrong as president and Clyde O. Hess as secretary, the group has functioned as an active part of the School of Journalism.

Having been created the School of Journalism on April 22, 1939, this unit is enjoying its first year of existence as a separate unit from the College of Arts and Sciences. In consequence of substantial development and rapid advancement, this former department has earned its present independence.

The Daily Athenaeum, a five-day newspaper, is produced by these journalism students. Robert Earle, as editor-in-chief, and Robert Nuzum, as managing editor, guided the "principles" of the campus paper this year, while George Armstrong handled the business.

THE SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM

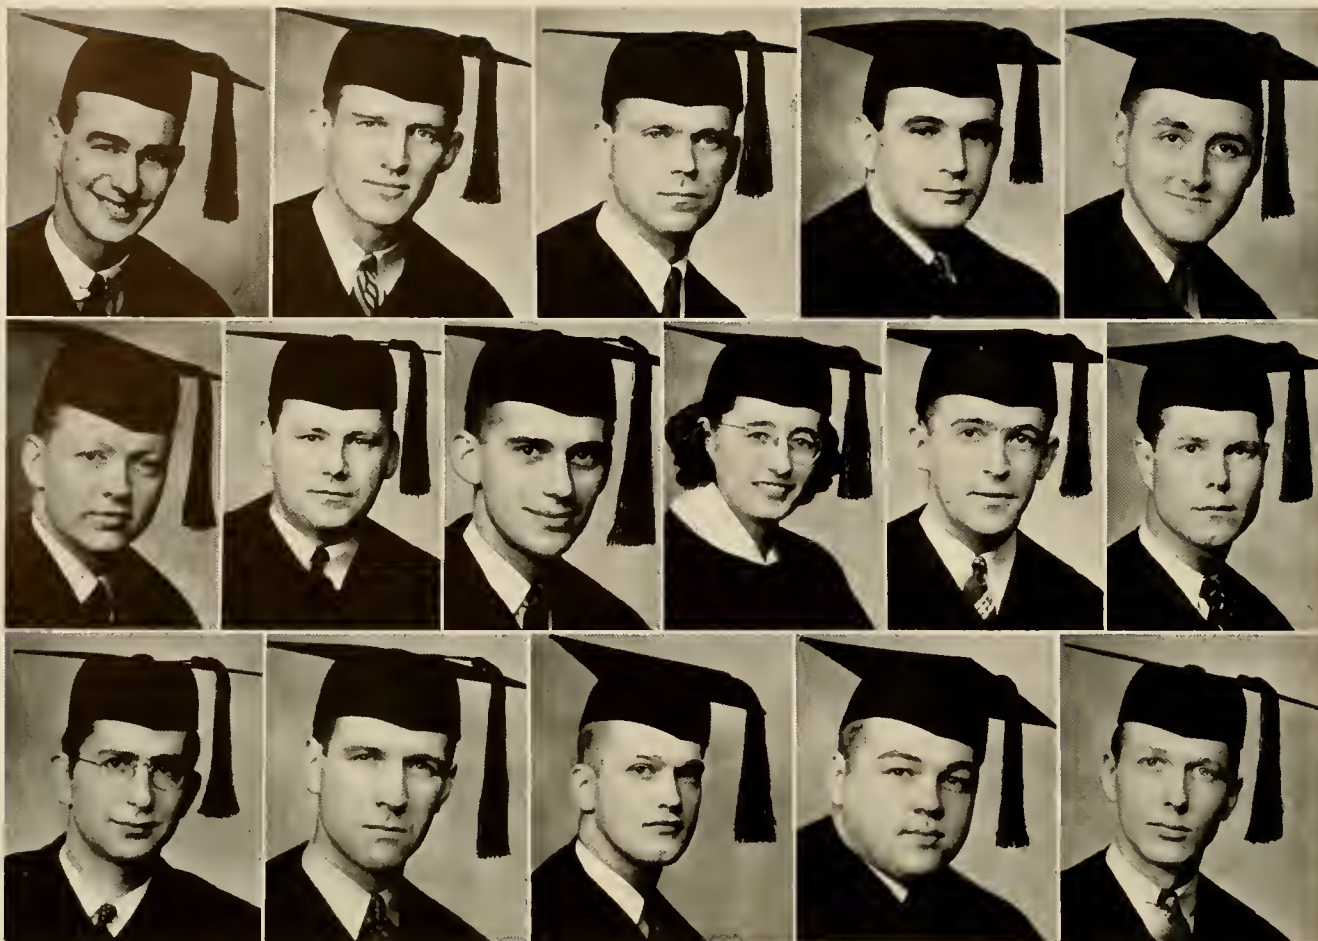

The first professional school in the University was established in 1878 and was the College of Law. In 1897 the course of study was increased from one year to two years. Since 1912 the degree of Bachelor of Laws has been conferred only upon the satisfactory completion of three years of law-school work.

In 1914 the College of Law was admitted to membership in the Association of American Law Schools, which is an organization of leading schools for the purpose of maintaining high standards in legal education. The College of Law is on the list of schools approved by the American Bar Association. Until 1923, when the present College of Law building was built, the law classes were held in rooms on the second floor of Woodburn Hall.

Established in 1897 the School of Music offers two four-year curricula in applied music leading to the degree of Bachelor of Music. The work in applied music may be in piano, violin, pipe organ, or voice.

The School of Music is situated in two buildings. One contains two studios, three studio-classrooms, and six practice rooms, and the other contains the office, two studios, four practice rooms, one classroom, and the locker-room.

To afford opportunity for the students to apply in public the proficiency that has been developed in the studio, recitals are given in which the students participate.

ORGANIZATIONS

The University-Community Mixed Chorus was reorganized in 1939 under the direction of Frank Cuthbert. It presented its first concert in December at which time miscellaneous selections including excerpts from Mendellsohn's "Elijah" were given.

During Holy Week it presented Gounod's "Gallia" and Stainer's "Crucifixion." In April, a program of varied selections and a concert version of Gounod's "Faust" were presented. Local and out-of-town soloists have appeared with the chorus.

*I*n 1914, responding to the request of the West Virginia State Pharmaceutical Association, the Board of Regents established a Department of Pharmacy in the School of Medicine. The first course offered was a two-year course leading to the degree of Graduate in Pharmacy.

In 1917 additional courses of three and four years, leading to the degrees of Pharmaceutical Chemist and Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy were established. Following the requirements of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, of which the College is a member, the course leading to the degree of Graduate in Pharmacy was discontinued in 1924, and the course leading to the degree of Pharmaceutical Chemist was discontinued in 1932, so that a minimum of four years of study is now required.

On July 1, 1919, the "Board of Regents" was merged in the "State Board of Education;" and by an act passed April 14, 1927, the control of the University was vested in a "Board of Governors." This Board of Governors in 1936 ordered that a College of Pharmacy be established as a separate unit of the University.

PHARMACY

The Division of Physical Education was established on the Campus in 1928 and was combined with the department of intercollegiate athletics in 1937 to form the School of Physical Education and Athletics. It serves many purposes and many of these can be seen in a review of the facilities of the School.

Men's Field House, completed in 1928, which is located on the lower Campus near the Monongahela River, provides facilities for physical education classes, intramural sports, and intercollegiate athletics and contains the administrative offices of the School of Physical Education and Athletics. Immediately adjacent are five tennis courts, eight horseshoe pitching courts, and two archery ranges.

Elizabeth Moore Hall is situated on the upper Campus and was completed in 1928. It provides social, recreational, and physical education facilities for women students. It also houses the offices of the department of service program for women. All the women's organizations on the Campus use the building as a meeting place. Its appointments and facilities make it ideal for the holding of receptions and social events. The gymnasium, which is well equipped, the locker and showers, and the swimming pool provide excellent recreation and physical education facilities.

The Dolphin Club was organized four years ago at West Virginia University and has as its purpose the promotion of water safety and more skillful swimming. This is an honorary organization with Grace M. Griffin, associate professor of physical education, as the sponsor.

During the past few years the club has presented a water pageant and has sponsored an intramural swimming meet. It has conducted try-outs for the university's participation in the National Telegraphic Swimming Meet. Junior members are instructed in swimming and diving skills and are taken into the club on passing certain skill and endurance tests.

To dance" is the ancient Greek meaning of the term Orchesis. Twenty-nine active students compose Senior Orchesis, following the incentive of eleven charter members who founded the organization in 1928.

The group presents three major entertainments annually. First is the Christmas dance drama; this year "Peter and the Wolf," a musical fairy tale, was given. Guest night, the annual dance recital for friends and parents, was presented in March. Orchesis also had a part in the program of the May Festival.

Officers for the group are Jean Marshall, president; Thelma Scott, secretary; Frances Stotler, treasurer.

Regular instruction in subjects preparatory to the study of medicine was first given in West Virginia University in 1871, the "chair of anatomy, physiology, and hygiene" having been established in that year. A curriculum covering the first two years of a standard four-year medical course was provided in 1902, and the work was placed in charge of the College of Medicine. In 1912 the College of Medicine became the School of Medicine.

No degrees are conferred in this School inasmuch as only the first two years of medicine are given. The School of Medicine is listed as a recognized school of basic medical sciences by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association. It is also a member of the Association of American Medical Colleges.

We leave now the various colleges, schools, and divisions and present the All College section, where the administrative officers introduce the junior, sophomore, and freshman classes, who in turn give us the honorary organizations and activities.

For more than half a century the university has provided basic education, training, and scientific information to West Virginia youth in general and the adult farm population through its service to the State. We have viewed the deans and directors who have guided the seniors through their college life, and the seniors were presented, who will leave the university and who will serve it in the future as alumni.

West Virginia University today—constantly improving and enlarging its service—is a dynamic memorial to the pioneer spirit of its able administrators, deans, and professors who have and are devoting their lives to the building of an ever greater institution upon the basic principles that truth through application of scientific knowledge is fundamental to all human progress and development. To the students who will be seniors in the years to come there is a challenge, for the advancement and enlargement of the university is vested in its graduates and in its administrators. Those officers who are pictured in this introduction to the All College section are friends of the university; and they have seen progress made on the campus on the broad Monongahela, of which they are proud.

Completing her first year as Dean of Women, Edna Arnold has only to look about at the vast number of women who love her to realize the success she has made of her position. For more than fifteen years L. L. Friend has served the university. His kindness cannot be surpassed by his efficiency. Ted Neff's successful years and Dick Aspinall's ambition give Joe Condry, the student body president, something for which to aspire. In presenting this All College section we introduce those students who have their work in the university to perform—they are the growing force of our school.

The Interfraternity Intramural Council was organized when the need became apparent for some student group to regulate interfraternity sports. Each fraternity on the campus is represented by a senior and junior representative. Regular meetings are held and the decision of the council is final in intramural controversies.

Officers are: James McCartney, president; Jack Springer, vice-president; Andrew Zepp, secretary and treasurer.

The organization of Associated Women Students is composed of all women students enrolled in the University. This group of women regulate all matters pertaining to the student life of its members; it furthers in every way a spirit of unity and friendliness among the men and women of the university; it attempts to increase the student's sense of responsibility, and it aims to be a medium for maintaining high scholastic and social standards.

A. W. S. has been active in social affairs and sponsored the annual "Gold Digger's Ball." One of the outstanding jobs of the council was the point and merit system, which was an attempt to record all major and minor activities in which students had participated while at the university.

As I sit here typing pages which will later be thrust at me in printed form, I think of another day, a few years back, when I was looking at the selections of covers made by editors of hundreds of yearbooks all over the United States. The representative of the cover company turned to me and said, "What cover will you select when you are editor?" I laughed, for being editor of the University yearbook seemed the most impossible position I could ever have.

I believe I feel the same now as I send copy and pictures to the printer and engraver in that all I am sending seems far from being a book. Yet, I know that the students will receive a book, which, I hope, will surpass any they have ever seen on the campus. Every editor of every yearbook every year thinks he or she is producing a masterpiece, and when it is over and the book is on sale, perhaps they all feel as last year's editor felt when asked how it seemed to be the editor of a successful book. His reply was that he felt as though he had been presented with twins!

To the many friends and representatives of companies who have worked, who have made suggestions, and who have been interested in the development of the 1940 Monticola, I am sincerely grateful. To Hugh Knee and his staff, to E. Gayle Fitzsimmons, to Joe Ledbetter, to Gerald Jenny, the University editor, and to Arden Skidmore I extend my thanks. To Warren Point, who has been the most faithful of staff members, I wish success in all future positions. To the members of the editorial and business staffs, to friends, and to former Monticola editors I wish to express my gratitude, also to Dick for waiting.

Sincerely,

SHIRLEY I. CURREY, Editor.

THE UNIVERSITY OF WEST VIRGINIA

We present this 1940 Monticola through the combined efforts of the editorial and business staffs under the supervision of the Publications Board. We have enjoyed the work and honestly have tried to please everyone. We have accepted suggestions given by the student body and have attempted to return to you a book which will relive for you in the years to come glorious days spent at West Virginia University. If you like our book, we truly have succeeded.

*A*t the University's inception in 1867 military training was established. The Division is in charge of and instruction is directed by a United States Army field officer, detailed by the War Department as professor of Military Science and Tactics and as Commandant of Cadets. His staff is composed of four officers and three non-commissioned officers—all United States Army personnel; one band director emeritus and one director! and sixteen student assistants, members of the Officers' Reserve Corps. The Corps of Cadets is organized as a regiment of three battalions—six companies of infantry, three companies of engineers, and a band. Students in the College of Engineering and Mechanic arts are enrolled in the engineering unit. All others are enrolled in the infantry unit.

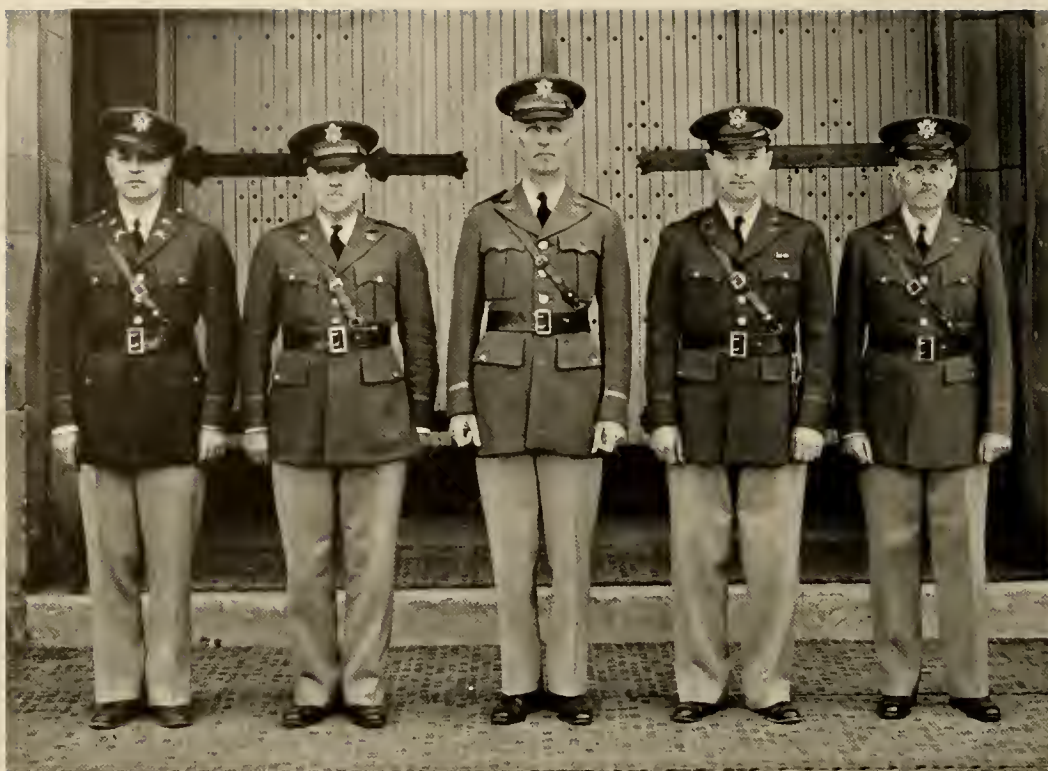

Prior to the completion of the Armory in 1902 drill rooms and living quarters for the Commandant and other officers were in the present Agricultural Experiment Station building. The Armory is a large story-and-a-half brick structure and is the headquarters of the Corps of Cadets and all of their equipment is housed therein. The Commandant of Cadets and his aides have offices in this building. The University Band practices in the building, and many of the general University social functions are held there.

The curriculum in military science and tactics embraces four years of work. Three hours a week are required for the first two years. Five hours a week for the last two years are optional. Inspection of the Corps of Cadets is made, once a year, by the Commanding General, Fifth Corps Area, or by a board of officers appointed by him. Other inspections are made at varying periods by officers of the Fifth Corps Area.

CADET COLONEL AND STAFF

The University Band is sponsored by and functions under the Military Division, the responsible head being the Commandant of Cadets. It is comprised of two sections: the first section is the principal R. O. T. C. marching unit and is composed of seventy members drawn from all classes, including graduate students. The second section is not limited to numbers and is composed of freshmen and sophomores only. It serves as a training group which supplies members to the first section. The band rehearses in the Armory under a musical director who is also a faculty member of the School of Music. The band furnishes music for all military ceremonies, parades, athletic events, concerts, and similar occasions. The members wear a special uniform provided by the Military Division.

Seated: Robert J. Heckert, John L. Snider, Manager; Carroll M. Smithson, Duane Adams, Major Harvey Shelton. Standing: John C. Draper, Denver F. Milam, Sergeant Arthur J. McClung, Thomas A. White, Thomas G. Clark, James P. Painter.

ALPHA XI DELTA

RUTH SIMMONS

ALPHA XI DELTA

SEPTEMBER scintillated in with its usual aura of freshman caps, football speculations and registration dilemma. Fraternity men—on the scene days early to get the house in shape and make last minute arrangements—swarmed the courts of the Dorm welcoming freshmen, whose shoulders were still wet with their mothers' parting tears. Freshman Week with its annual color and hustle left everyone as bewildered as ever and pledge pins blossomed in abundance on new lapels as classes opened.

First sorority rushing season and the girls appeared for the first time in floor-length frills. Parties, blind dates and rushing talks abounded. Then the informal formality of pledging.

Opening of the football season and Greek temples overflowed with returning brothers and sisters . . . buffet dinners, introductions, reminiscences, drinks.

Local bands crescendoed as University, Greek informals came into season. Stags eyed freshman beauties and reluctantly cut. Couples promenaded, mechanically drifted through receiving lines . . . cigarettes on sidelines, paper punch cups on window ledges.

Formal season . . . white tie and tails accompanied corsaged, backless gowns. Smaller stag lines sought out the most danceable. Name bands with charming vocalists went from allegretto to allegro in effort to please the collegiates . . . check-room stubs, long intermission, last dances in topcoats and evening wraps.

Spring . . . long days and short nights, Cheat swimming parties, picnics at Cooper's Rock, lolling on Woodburn steps, arm-in-arm walks on Maiden Lane, black-gowned seniors, commencement . . . home.

PHI KAPPA PSI

Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity was founded at Washington and Jefferson College in 1852. Hunter's green and cardinal red are its colors and the fraternity flower is the Jacqueminot rose. West Virginia Alpha chapter was established in 1890.

The image is a composite of 14 oval portraits of men, likely members of a fraternity, arranged in three rows around a central crest. The men are dressed in formal suits and ties. The central crest is a shield with a skull and crossbones at the top. The shield is divided into four quadrants: the top-left contains a circular emblem with the letters 'MCCCL'; the top-right contains a star; the bottom-left contains a caduceus; and the bottom-right contains a large letter 'F'. A banner at the bottom of the shield reads 'STELLIS AERUUS DURANDO'. Below the crest, there is a small line of text that is difficult to read but appears to be a motto or a reference to a specific group.

SIGMA DELTA TAU

Sigma Delta Tau Sorority was founded in 1917 at Cornell University. Cafe-au-lait and old blue are the sorority colors and its flower is the tea rose. Omicron chapter was organized in 1934.

THE boys in the back room started muttering last year about cabbages and football coaches. But this year—the Year of the Great Depression in West Virginia Football—they broke out in open rebellion. And before the season was half over.

Sleepy Glenn deserves a lot of credit. He probably was not the best coach in the East, but here's one of the mob that would wager the seat of his trousers is not nearly so shiny as that of several other coaches in bigger, softer jobs. For one thing, he never had the support he really deserved, either financially or otherwise, even when he was winning. And remember this, boys and girls, he did take us to the Sun Bowl one year. Fickle, fickle fandom!

So it is with a sense of loss that we see Sleepy bury himself in his medicine (as if he didn't have bitter enough medicine when he was here). He was serious, commanded more respect among his boys than any other coach for some time, and nobody can say he didn't try. We can't lick 'em, so we'll jine 'em.

Along comes Kern, who built a wonder team at Carnegie Tech in his three years there. We begin already to place bets on the 1940 team. Confucius might point out: take it easel, chillun.

It's only fair that we give the blond Bill a year or two before we start sharpening our scalpels for another dissection. After all, he is instituting a brand-new system here. He's taking men some other coach selected and building them into his own style of play. And he runs into a tough schedule to start out on. So let's bide a bit of time.

And Moses led the children of Israel (or some children) to the promised land—but not the Mountaineers. Came September and one of the biggest mass headaches the University has ever had as our purveyors of the pigskin got off on first one wrong foot and then another until we wound up with a lot of eggs in our basket—goose eggs. There were those gloomy, tongue-in-cheek individuals who remembered the 1938 season and maintained a more or less discreet silence, only occasionally lapsing into a lush raspberry, but most of us, believing in God and social justice, looked forward to greater things.

So we had a big, fine-looking team, a good coaching staff, and the stadium debt paid off. But something happened—some people might call it fate—and we wound up with two rather anemic wins, a surprising tie, and six—no less—drubbin's. About all we salvaged out of that dark season (we speak of it in a frightened whisper) was a lot of bitter experience. And Legs Hawley burned up all those SRO signs and seriously considered a buy-a-buddy-poppa campaign.

West Virginia, 44; West Virginia Wesleyan, 0

It all began late in September on the green-topped loam of the stadium. Wesleyan really didn't have much, but it warmed our hearts the way our gridiron gallants skipped through that high-passing mob. Harry Clark's 52-yard scamper in the third period, Johnny Carliss' two smashing scores, Charley Hockenberry's rabbit-like running—eh, 'twas positively beautiful. We gained 449 yards to their 40 and the Indian summer was really gorgeous.

West Virginia, 0; Pitt, 20

Then the bottom dropped out of something. Few of us were optimistic enough to hope to throttle the powerful Panther—in spite of the fact that Sutherland wasn't at the other end of the leash—but we hoped to see our boys do valiant battle. We gained 39 yards net rushing, made three first downs to Pitt's 276 yards and 14 first downs.

West Virginia, 7; Cincinnati, 0

Cincinnati left his plow to juggle porkhides and almost upset a bucketful of dope. Playing under lights, the Glensquad piddled for two quarters before little Sammy Pinion scooted across to the Bearcat end zone for a lone touchmarker. And Charlie Seabright hit one on the nose for an extra point. Cincinnati threatened a couple of times, but Baisi sneered and the threats stopped.

West Virginia, 0; Washington and Lee, 9

Some 2,950 students made the annual pilgrimage to Charleston to lay a burned sacrifice in the middle of Laidley Field. The Generals stood up something in the manner of Jackson at the first Manassas and Mountaineer offensives ricocheted harmlessly into the ground—on their noses. The Confederates outscored us, out first-downed us, out passed us, and generally made a more thorough job of everything but celebrating. About all most of us remember about the week-end are the parties in the Daniel Boone and the dance.

U N T A I N E E R S

West Virginia, 6; South Carolina, 6

Most people were too disheartened to note that West Virginia really played a good ball game for at least three quarters of the South Carolina melee. We scored first on an 89-yard advance, topping off which Carliss passed 24 yards to Seabright, and showed a remarkable edge in ground-gaining. An 85-yard return of a Mountaineer punt in the closing minutes of the game spoiled it all, however. Shucks!

West Virginia, 0; Georgetown, 14

Came then the Hoyas who seem to have a kind of perennial Indian sign on wearers of the Old Gold and Blue. It wasn't so bad, though, for the Georgetowners were topheavy favorites, and we were so tired. The M't'n'n'rs made only two first downs and got into G'town territory only once (all the way up to the G. 45-yard line), but after all, they only made two touchdowns. We won a moral victory.

West Virginia, 7; Manhattan, 19

Homecoming, and the only thing that kept th' crowd from drowning its woes in a sea of fuddlewatter was the fact that all of the West Virginia drug stores were closed on account of it being Armistice Day too. As it was, several citizens resorted to radiator fluid and canned heat. The Manhattans did not waste any time, pushing over two scores in nine minutes and a third in the last period. The West Virginia's only contribution to the cause for higher scores was a touchdown in the second period by Carliss. And then there was (sigh) the Homecoming dance.

West Virginia, 6; Kentucky, 13

Citizens who saw the Kentucky game say the Glenngang played its stalwartest, scintillatingest, superlativest ball game agin' the Wildcats. Kentucky, which had just kicked the moleskins off Alabama, had all it could do to stop the mouldering Mountaineers, who scored when Carliss plunged over after a Seabright-Mellace pass play had set things up on the one-yard line. For which we lift our bowlers and bow briefly our heads for all the mean things we have said.

West Virginia, 0; George Washington, 13

The Colonial game was delayed briefly because of the Rooseveltian Thanksgiving. Would that it had been postponed indefinitely. They out first-downed us 13 to two, outgained us 39 to 252—but we outfumbled them three to one. And so, exit crying.

The squad loses some good men this year—not the least of whom is Coach Sleepy Glenn—but with the advent of the new regime, a decent looking crop of sophomores et al we may find some silver in our lining next year. Let us pray while Brother Hawley passes the hat.

RESUME OF

And then there was basketball.

The Mountaineers Raese-ed through a bitter nineteen-game schedule and gathered laurel wreaths to the extent of thirteen, some of them over such redoubtable heavies as Pitt (sigh!), Temple, Georgetown, George Washington, Washington and Jefferson, and Carnegie Tech. Only such luminous institutions as Penn State, Kentucky, Pitt (sigh!), Temple, and West Virginia Wesleyan managed to get their fingers in the Dyke for slight victories. Raese's racers would have finished near the top of the late EIC had that bemourned confederation still been in existence.

Individually, Jimmy Ruch and Rudy Baric, dubbed most appropriately the Mountaineers' "scoring twins," lit on top of the scoring heap. The jump-shooting Ruch ankled about to knock down 197 points while his compatriot hooped it up for 195. Co-Captain Homer Brooks and Gobby Chepko, as well as the colorful Sam (Rosebud) Mandich, came in for a portion of the scoring favors, each doing better than a hundred points.

And we might pause here to cast a boutonniere or two in the general direction of Lou Kalmar and infinitesimal Jimmy McCartney for floor-play that would warm the heart of an Adagio dancer. And, of course, those unsung heroes—the substitutes.

So we were quite happy when our Mountain Men romped through Bethany, Marietta and Carnegie Tech successively and successfully. Nor were we much aggrieved when Kentucky's Kernels hung one on us, for Kentucky folk are pretty tough on basketball courts. But we really bubbled over when our boys trickled through the stout defenses of titanic Temple. We were so happy, in fact, that we didn't even alibi when Wes-Wes-West Virginia Wesleyan got into us by an eleven-point margin three games later after we had licked 'em in their own back yard.

Came then the eastern trip, on which we kicked Lafayette and Georgetown in the teeth and took a dive for Penn State and Temple. The Raese-ers outran Washington and Jefferson and George Washington, then sat one out at Pitt (sigh!). Most disheartening was the Penn State waltz here, in which our boys carried the game into an extra period (remember the long second last season?) but for naught. Sweet, sweet revenge, however, in treatment of the pernicious Pitt Panther (sigh!) in a glorious triple bill.

BASKETBALL

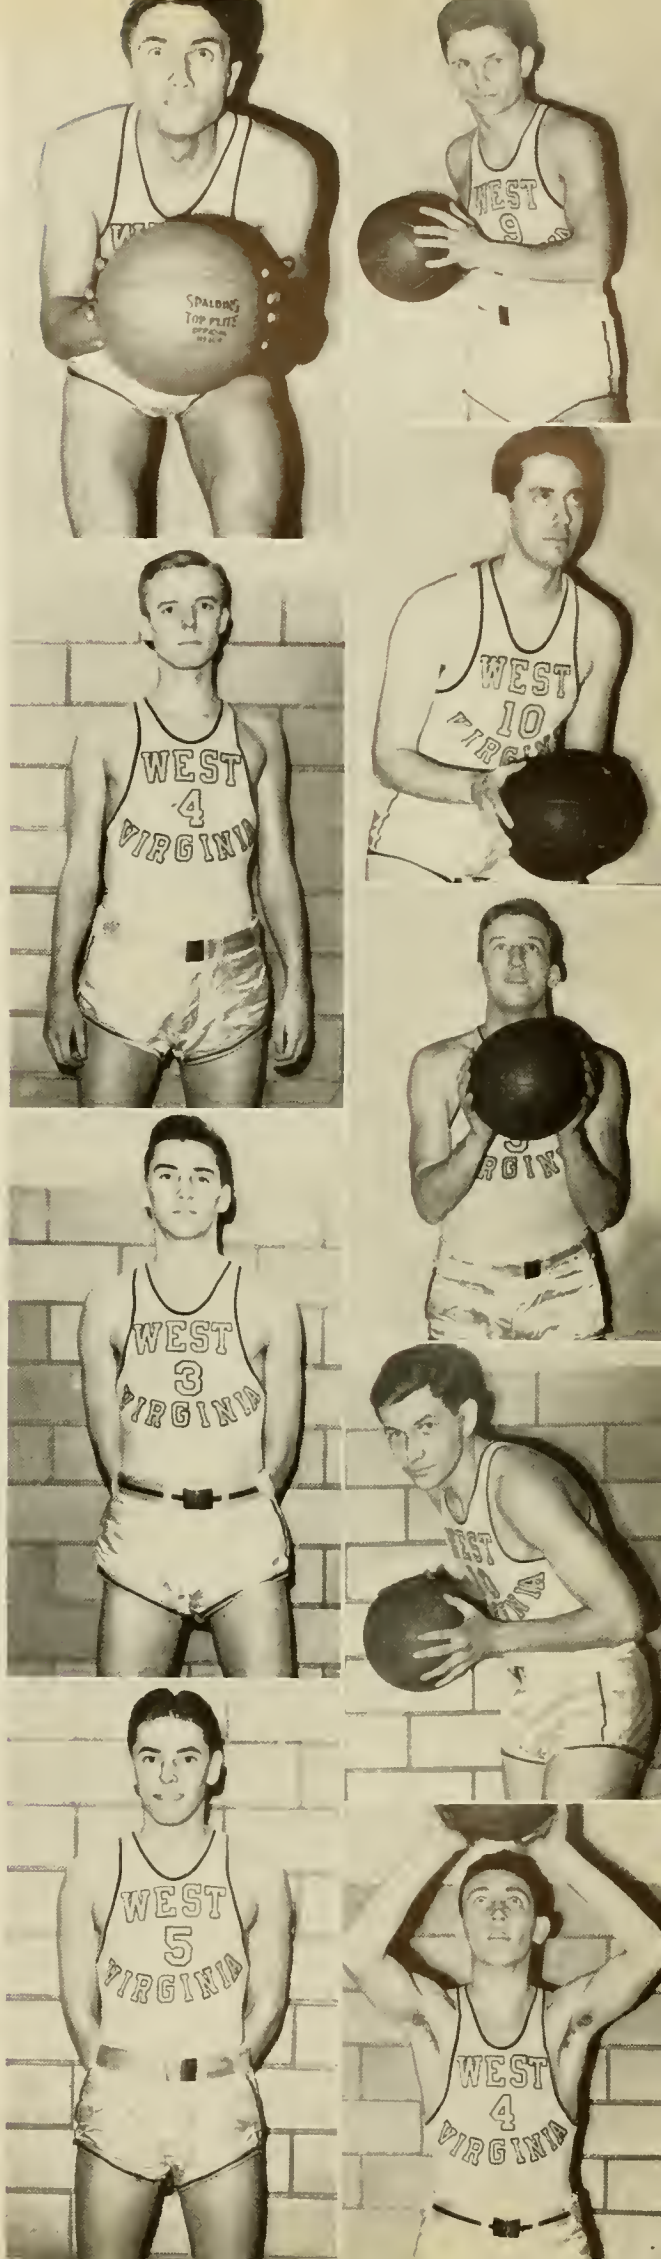

Brooks and Chepko will not be back next year—and they will be missed—but Coach Dyke Raese still has Ruch, Baric, Mandich, Kalmar, McCartney and others, plus Scotty Hamilton, Bill Hess, and some more from the freshman squad, which does not look so bad. Incidentally, the freshmen won eleven, lost four in the course of the season, which also is not bad. Bill Hess was the leading scorer.

Finale of the indoor sports program at the University this year was the twenty-seventh annual state high school basketball tournament, in which Wheeling passed Beckley in the finals.

Came spring and baseball. The Mountain moundmen piled up a total of 151 runs in winning eight in a fifteen-game schedule. Numbered among those who felt the power of Mountaineer bats were Pitt, Temple, Penn State, Ohio Wesleyan, St. Vincents, and Salem College. Michigan State, Pitt, Mount St. Marys, Penn State, and St. Vincents won games from the varsity.

Biggest stick in the local batting detail was owned by Charlie Hockenberry, whose season average was .464, which isn't so bad in any league. Skip Falkenstine was second and Lorenz, Grossman, Schilansky, Anderson, and Johnny Bennett all hit above the .300 mark, which is also pretty good. Johnny Bennett won five straight games, losing only to Michigan State.

After dropping two to Michigan State in the drear, cold first days of the season, Coach Rodgers and his boys came back to kick Salem all over the drill field, winning 32-5 before the game was called in the sixth inning because of darkness. Came then two high-scoring victories over Ohio Wesleyan before the eastern trip and a loss at the hands of Mount St. Marys and a thrilling 3-2 win over Temple. We split series with Pitt, Penn State, and St. Vincents in the remainder of the season.

Art Smith's track squad was not as successful in 1939 as were most of the other spring sports squads. The runnin' and jumpin' Mountaineers won only from Waynesburg, losing by wide margins to Pitt (sigh!) and Ohio University in the season's three meets.

Flashiest individual performer of the year was Sophomore Al Strouse, who won four firsts during the season, one of them the only first place scored against Pitt. He excelled in the hurdles and dashes, was undefeated in the high hurdles and won several places in the hundred.

Another promising sophomore was Jacobson, who won a couple of firsts and some more places in the distance runs. Other first place winners were Captain Tony Rapaswich, Fred Weiland, Romanoski, Hill, Phillips, Haley, and Savage.

Although they lost three, tied one and won two, West Virginia's boxers had more than a successful season. For one thing, they placed one man, 135-pound Crispin Hernandez, among the champions of the Eastern Intercollegiate Conference tournament. For another, they won meets from Bucknell and Michigan State, two of the toughest squads in their respective sections. They tied Temple, another eastern power, and held Army and City College of New York to close scores.

Outstanding among Mountaineer boxers were Gene Tudor, Hernandez, and Bill Mucklow, middleweights, who slugged it out with some of the finest fighters in the country. Hernandez and Tudor are sophomores. Mucklow won five in six bouts, losing only at Wisconsin and going to the finals in the tournament. Tudor, who joined the squad late, picked up two technical knockouts and a decision, losing at Wisconsin and in the finals of the tournament. Hernandez lost decisions to Army and Wisconsin. Beecher Hinkle, light heavyweight, won two, lost three, and went to the EIC finals.

Coach Bill Neely, serving his first year as boxing instructor, had a very successful year, all told, and the best of it is that he loses only Mucklow for next year's squad.

A jinx chased Coach Whitey Gwinn and his University wrestlers all over the mat during the first half of the season, but they came back to pin it for successive victories over Washington and Jefferson, Temple and Case in the last half of the card. They dropped meets to Washington and Lee, Findlay, and Michigan State.

No particularly good individual records were turned in during the season. Captain John Hammer won three and lost three, but the best individual record was that of Whitey Wilbourn, who lost one decision and won three bouts, two of them by falls. Bob Hartley was pinned in his first three bouts and came back to pin his opponents in the last two. Dick Dolly, the heavyweight, lost one and won three, and the McArdles, Bob and Bonner, won two apiece and lost two each. John Tyson won two, tied one, and lost three.

Captain Hammer and Dolly will not be back next year, but Coach Gwinn hopes to build a strong, experienced squad around the remaining six men.

TENNIS

And lo, the University's fortunes in the racket-and-net game soared to new heights as Coach Tom Ennis doffed scholarly mortar board for sun visor. Soared, in fact, to a point just short of the Pitt pinnacle (sigh!) in winning six dual meets and dropping one only to the Panthers.

The varsity completely shut out Wesleyan and Waynesburg and decisively whipped Duquesne and Washington and Jefferson twice. John Elsey, top scorer of the team for the year, won the Ennis tennismen's only match against Pitt.

Elsey totaled eight and a half points during the season by winning six singles matches and dropping only one, and sharing in five doubles wins and losing one. Captain Duddrear won five singles matches, lost two, and shared in four doubles wins, losing three. Bob Spangler won five singles and dropped one, and shared in five doubles victories, losing one to nose out Duddrear by a half point with seven and a half.

John Spangler and Rice had six and a half points each, the former winning four singles and five doubles and the latter winning five singles and three doubles. Coffield won five singles, lost one, for a season score of five points.

GOLF

West Virginia's 1939 golf team whittled a niche on the gatepost of the hall of fame by beating Pitt (sigh!) for the first time in Mountaineer golf history, and quite decisively—the score was seven and a half to one and a half. Otherwise, we won four meets out of six, losing to Washington and Jefferson and Pitt in the last two games.

Bill Witt and George Hopkins hung up the best individual records, the former winning five singles, losing one and sharing in four best ball wins, and the latter winning four singles, tying one, losing one and sharing in five best ball wins. Wilson won four singles, lost two and shared in four best ball victories for six points and Sharpenberg won four, lost one and shared in two best ball wins for five. Team members Spencer, Graham, and Lippucci made four and a half, three and a half, and three points in that order.

joie de vivre

Indeed this is an age in which the joy of living is being appreciated. Much of this new zest for life comes from new leisure hours which have been made possible by electricity.

From juke-box to opera, from the smallest kitchen to the largest restaurant, from the smallest farm to the largest ranch, electricity has released time and labor for everyone.

From now on add to your joy of living by letting electricity, the cheapest of all servants, give you extra hours in which to enjoy yourself and the people around you.
